

THE CASE OF THE EX-CONVICT

Attorney to Charge of Highways of his attorney, Bolling, ex-convict, was a day continuant in the hearing before Magistrate J. J. Cleland on a charge of robbery.

who was arrested Nov. 12, was putting up a fight against the charge they make that he was one of the principals in a robbery Nov. 12. The defendant has retained Attorney Ben Bolling, and while the police claim they are convinced Bolling is guilty of the robbery, Bolling is putting forth efforts to fight the case to the limit.

He is alleged to be one of two men who entered the Cramer bar on the evening of Nov. 12 and shot Edward Cramer, and then fled with the cash register.

The prisoner served time at the state penitentiary and was paroled for his work. The present difficulty is that the "slipping" on the part of Bolling since released from the state penitentiary.

ABLE TO TALK. The two men who held up the bar were unmasked. They were taken down over their eyes, but it is believed by the police when they come to trial Edward Cramer and several customers who were present will be able to identify Bolling as one of the two men who pulled the job.

IMMIGRANTS' COMMISSION PERPLEXITIES

Springfield, Ill.—Whether illiterate foreigners under 21 years old are required by Illinois law to attend school is one of the perplexing questions confronting the Illinois immigrants' commission, according to its first annual report.

This commission was created by the last general assembly and appointed by Governor Lowden a year ago to make a survey of the immigrants, alien born and foreign speaking people of the state and to examine into their economic, financial and legal customs and their educational and other needs.

"One of the questions to be solved," its initial report says, "are those under 21 years of age, who are not literate, according to the Illinois law, be required to attend school; ought there be a federal do they afford any opportunity to the non-English speaking immigrant to learn the language and prepare for naturalization.

Work of this commission is to prepare the immigrant for citizenship, to win his confidence and to make of him a good American citizen. It has already done much practical work in aiding immigrants, distressed because of inability to get money transferred to their needy relatives and friends abroad. Much help has also been given in bringing relatives and friends of immigrants to America.

The immigrant commission is composed of Francis W. Shagard, secretary, Springfield, director of the department of registration and education, who is chairman; Mrs. Harlan Ward Coffey, Chicago; Abel De-veaux, C. F. Harding of Chicago and John W. Forest of St. Louis. Miss Grace Abbott, formerly director of the Immigrants Protective League at Washington, is executive secretary of the commission.

It's costing us thousands, but Harned and Von Maur patrons are being protected. That is, and always has been our policy.

Wherever there is a decline in prices you can depend upon this store being in line with it. We're making readjustments daily, keeping in close touch with the market.
